

BARNUM'S MEMORY HONOREDA STATUE TO THE GREAT SHOWMAN UNVEILED AT BRIDGEPORT.*CROWDS FLOCK TO SEASIDE PARK TO WITNESS THE EXERCISES--TRIBUTES TO BARNUM'S GENEROSITY AND STEERLING CHARACTER.

The statue of Phineas T. Barnum was unveiled yesterday at Seaside Park, Bridgeport, Conn., before 30,000 people. It was a general holiday at the way in which he was treated by the physicians at the New-York hospital. They assert that their friend was not carefully examined and that he was allowed to leave the hospital in a dying condition. Immediately after the accident the injured man was removed to the hospital, where Dr. Sherrill, the house-surgeon, is said to have treated him only for a contusion of the knee and several bruises on his face and hands.

Stapleton left the hospital on Friday evening and went to his single room in the rear temporary house at No. 323 East Twenty-first St. He complained to Mrs. Kate Dryer, his landlady, that he had severe pains in his chest. He returned to the hospital on Saturday morning and was treated by the physician department for chronic rheumatism. His appearance when he returned from the hospital on Saturday evening at about 7 o'clock is described as follows by Mrs. Dryer:

"When he came into the door he was breathing like a steam-engine. He could not talk for want of breath, and I was fearfully alarmed lest he should fall dead. I was frightened out of my wits, and as soon as my husband came in I sent him up to Mr. Stapleton, whom he found lying dead upon the floor, with his mouth full of blood."

Deputy-Coroner Weston, who performed the autopsy, found that Stapleton's neck and five of his ribs had been broken. Four of the broken ribs were on the right side. His spinal column had been fractured. The doctor's examination surprised him that Stapleton was not entirely killed. An investigation will probably be made to learn whether the physician who attended him died at the New-York Hospital.

Dr. Sherrill is out of town, and George P. Lautin, the superintendent of the hospital, absolutely refused to discuss the subject yesterday or to allow the Tribune to report it, as he was then engaged in the hospital.

given. On Friday morning there will be addresses by E. L. S. Horsburgh, of Queen's College, Oxford University; Professor Charles A. Collin, of Cornell University; and the Rev. Canon F. Mullany, Academy of the Sacred Heart, Stevens.

BROKEN NECK AND RIBS OVERLOOKED.SТАПЛЕТОН WAS TREATED AT THE NEW-YORK HOSPITAL AND ALLOWED TO GO HOME.

The friends of William Stapleton, the painter, who died on Saturday from injuries received by being run down by a Broadway cable-car at Twenty-eighth street the previous evening, are indignant at the way in which he was treated by the physicians at the New-York hospital. They assert that their friend was not carefully examined and that he was allowed to leave the hospital in a dying condition.

Immediately after the accident the injured man was removed to the hospital, where Dr. Sherrill, the house-surgeon, is said to have treated him only for a contusion of the knee and several bruises on his face and hands.

Sir John Lubbock said in a formal speech the other day that he thought the English people had learned more of their history from novels and from Shakespeare's plays than from books of history.

Seaside Park is on Long Island Sound. It consists of about 150 acres, and is the most beautiful spot in or about Bridgeport. The statue of Mr. Barnum is of bronze. The figure has a sitting posture and is almost a copy of the Horace Greeley statue in front of the Tribune office. It was cast in the royal foundry at Munich, after the drawings of Thomas A. Ball. The statue proper was presented to the city of Bridgeport by James A. Bailey, as a token of his esteem for his old business partner. The granite pedestal was subscribed for by the citizens of Bridgeport, as their share in placing a monument to their famous fellow-citizen, the man who did more than any other to promote the interests of his home city.

The procession formed in Broad, Elm, Fairfield, Cannon and John sts., moved down Broad and State sts., Park, Vaidenene and Branford aves. It passed the grand stand and turned back to the City Hall, where it was reviewed by the city officials. The procession was led by a platoon of police, commanded by Captain Eugene Birmingham and Sergeant Alvin S. Hunt. These were followed by Brigadier-General Henry A. Bishop, with Major Howard G. Hubbard and Frank D. Bell for chief of staff and chief aid respectively. The aides were A. R. Logie, Dr. B. D. Sheedy, A. Whipple, F. B. Smith, J. S. Atkinson, Charles B. Read, the Rev. H. A. Davenport, C. C. Drake, Jr., Dr. C. B. Baker, J. A. Draper, Dr. S. J. Damon, Dr. F. W. Graves, L. W. Eaton, Dr. S. E. Eggleston, W. F. Hobbs, W. B. Bolande, Brown, Jr., Dr. H. P. Cole, H. D. Patchen, Augustus McKeyeley, Dr. J. D. S. Smith, F. Silliman, F. W. Smith, Dr. B. W. White, W. E. Waller, Harry A. Hubbell, H. L. Farnes, Dr. C. W. Fitch, Dr. A. Gilroy, Dr. J. W. Gordon, Edgar Bassick, Harry Ives, Dr. Clemens, J. A. Burr, S. W. Beach, Dr. W. B. Beebe, O. A. H. Brothwell, Simon Conner, Thomas Cone, B. C. DeWolf, G. C. Edwards, H. C. Godfrey, E. A. Godfrey, G. S. Hawley, Dr. C. N. Haskell, F. B. Hastings, George S. Knapp, C. E. Lindsey, Frank Gernet, A. Thibois, John Laddington, R. Laubach, G. A. Wren, H. W. Whittemore, Sidney Lockwood, William Lounsbury, J. A. Wilson, Dr. N. E. Worrell, Dr. Adams, W. S. Tomlinson, J. Huber, William E. Parker, Dr. J. R. Topping, C. M. Cole, F. V. Gilliland, Dr. M. W. Hall, F. H. Middlebrook, F. D. Morehouse, A. H. Taylor, H. S. DeWolf, W. A. Standish, Clarence Willett, H. C. Bill, J. B. Turney, Frank Slosson, Ernest Lyon, F. C. Morehouse.

The special bicycle aids were Harry G. Foote, William F. Hopkins, Herbert M. Lyons, Harry B. Morris and Richard Netherett. In the military division were Major James Sheridan, commanding battalion; Lieutenant John O'Neil, acting adjutant; 4th Regiment Band; Company E, 4th Regiment, Connecticut National Guard; Captain J. J. Gleeson; Company B, 4th Regiment, Connecticut National Guard; Captain F. H. Hildreth Rifles; Captain James Carton; Company K, 6th Regiment, Connecticut National Guard; First Machine Gun Section, Battalion; Captain Henry Avery, commanding Fourth Machine Gun Section, Bridgeport; First Lieutenant George P. Rand, commanding.

The second division was commanded by Henry A. Lamberti, George Richardson, G. A. Robertson, W. A. Thompson, E. A. Doolittle, L. L. Laughlin and Jessie Lyon. It comprised Miller Commandery, No. 12, Royal Legion; Captain Alexander Bond; Post-Royal Legion, No. 25, G. A. M. Commander; James H. Smith; Union Council, No. 25, G. A. M. Commander; W. W. Cummings; Waldegrave Council, No. 6, G. A. M. A.; Commander E. T. Bump; Park City Council, No. 16; Knights of Columbus; Grand Knight, P. Conigliaro; Woodmen of the World; Pioneer Camp, No. 2; John C. Tarrill Camp, No. 2; Captain George Jesslyn, Somersets Engine Company; W. W. Manufacturing Company's fire engine and horses, foreman, Conrad Steiner; trumpeters on bicycles, Hamblin Wheelmen; President Frank Smith; St. George's Society, of Bridgeport; Bridgeport Lodge, No. 30; Order of Elks. In the third division--W. F. Bishop, commander; the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the city's greatest benefactor.

The act of unveiling was performed by Miss Nancy Barnum Leigh, a great granddaughter of Mr. Barnum. Miss Leigh is but six years old, but she went through her part of the ceremony with the fortitude of a woman of sixty. She was held in the arms of Colonel W. H. Stevenson, ex-vice-president of the Housatonic railroad system, as we pulled the cord which released the stars and stripes from the statue. Mayor Walter L. Hoyt received the statue on behalf of the city, and was followed by the Barnum Committee, Park Commissioners; Board of Trade; Works, Historical Society, Police Commissioners; Board of Scientific Society, Fire Commissioners; Board of Charities; Aldermen; Assessors; Library Commissioners; Building and Land Fund Commissioners; Building Commission; Board of Appointments and Board of Education.

The services at the unveiling began with the singing of "O Salutaris" and the Doxology by the assembly, and a prayer by the Rev. Lewis B. Fisher, ex-pastor of the First Universalist Church of Bridgeport, and present professor of pastoral theology at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y. Mr. Fisher was pastor of the church attended by Mr. Barnum, and he delivered a touching oration. This year, the organist was the singing of the national hymn by a male chorus and the presentation to the city of the statue by H. M. Marquardt, ex-Mayor of Bridgeport. In making the presentation, Mr. Marquardt referred to the gifts made by Mr. Barnum to the city and said that the gifts were only honoring the memory of the